Best Gay Erotica 2010

Edited by Richard Labonté

Where do you go when you need a good dose of seductively seditious, male-on-male literature? You go where the boys are: the Best Gay Erotica series. This year's title, Best Gay Erotica 2010, selected by novelist Blair Mastbaum, features "Cell 13" in which two jailbirds hammer out a deal. "The Suburban Boy" offers three different perspectives on a three-way. "The Stuffed Turkey" answers the age old question: is it possible to perform sodomy, zoophilia, homosexuality, necrophilia and sadism all at the same time?

Praise for the Best Gay Erotica Series:

"Supremely provocative." —Bay Area Reporter

"The premier annual collection of literary male homoerotica—as respected among writers as it is popular with readers." —Inches

RICHARD LABONTÉ has edited the Best Gay Erotica series since 1996. He reviews 100 books a year for Q Syndicate, which distributes his fortnightly column "Book Marks," and writes for Publishers Weekly. He lives in the wilds of Canada.

BLAIR MASTBAUM is the author of two novels, Clay's Way and Us Ones In Between, and the coeditor of Cool Things: Best Gay Fiction from Young American Writers.
